ANOF-300 An Officer's Response To Victims Of Crime

In serving the community, police officers are often the first point of contact for victims and witnesses of crime. The care and response to these individuals can greatly impact the outcome of an investigation, legal process and how the community feels about law enforcement. In this training we will review helpful guidelines in responding to victims of crime, trauma and appropriate referrals for victims. This training is not a basic introductory course, but rather a secondary more in-depth training to offer officers understanding of symptoms of traumatic response, vicarious trauma and secondary trauma. We will review indicators and helpful responses in cases when an officer is responding to a victim and/or witness who has experienced a traumatic event. Furthermore, we will review the impact of vicarious trauma in the field of law enforcement.
